

GUIDE TO WOMEN LEADERS IN INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

WOMEN'S FOREIGN POLICY GROUP
2020

ABOUT THE GUIDE AND THE

Women's Foreign Policy Group

Each year, when the Women's Foreign Policy Group publishes its Guide to Women Leaders in International Affairs, it gives us the opportunity to reflect on the many inspiring women shaping foreign policy around the world, as well as how far we've come and how far we still have to go.

This year is especially important, as it marks the 75th anniversary of the United Nations, the 25th anniversary of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action—where Hillary Clinton famously declared, "Women's rights are human rights,"—and the 25th anniversary of the Women's Foreign Policy Group.

Since its founding in 1995, the WFPG has worked tirelessly to advance women's leadership in international affairs, to amplify their voices, and to support women at every stage of their careers. We are proud of our role in expanding the constituency in international affairs by convening global experts and creating a vital network of women with diverse backgrounds and experience. Through mentoring and career development programs, we connect aspiring leaders with role models, providing students and young professionals with the tools they need for career advancement and to contribute to a stronger, more peaceful, and equitable society.

I hope that you find these women as inspiring as we do.

Regards,

Kim Kahnhauser Freeman
Executive Director, WFPG

Prime Minister Jacinda Ardern of New Zealand has repeatedly made headlines for her calm, decisive actions following crisis and her defiant rejections of racism and sexism. Under Ardern's leadership, New Zealand's government has pledged to be carbon neutral by 2050, passed bans on most semiautomatic weapons, and led one of the most effective early responses to the COVID-19 pandemic.

As Rwanda's Ambassador to the US, Mathilde Mukantabana speaks frequently on the critical role that women played in the peacebuilding and reconciliation efforts in her country following the 1994 genocide. Prior to this posting, she was a tenured professor, co-founded the US-based non-profit Friends of Rwanda Association, and established a social work program at the National University of Rwanda to help survivors of the genocide. H.E Adela Raz is the first woman to serve as Permanent Representative of Afghanistan to the United Nations, and at age 34 is among the UN's youngest ambassadors. She co-chairs a group of UN members dedicated to protecting and enhancing women's rights in Afghanistan and advocating for the inclusion of women in peace negotiations. Previously she served as Deputy Foreign Minister for Economic Cooperation and represented Afghanistan in various multilateral conferences and fora. Photo: Afghan Mission
